Situation in 2015

Technische Universität München thought about their core assets and services:
higher education and assigned services

The Auditor Program for Refugees

They came up with the idea of an Auditor Program.

Objective: Easy access to higher education for refugees with academic background

The Auditor Program for Refugees

Opportunity

to get to know the German university system

Perspectives

regarding regular study and alternative educational or career options

Attend lectures and take exams at TUM

Receive Student Counselling

About studying at TUM

About perspectives in the German (higher) education system

Attend German Language Courses at TUM Language Center

Regular or intensive courses.

Up to the German language level needed for most bachelor programs at TUM.

Participate in a mentoring program

Mentoring Program

Student mentors serve as experts of everyday student life.

Mentoring Program

enhancing language competencies opportunity for social contact to German society.

The Auditor Program for Refugees

Who is it best suited for:

Refugees who had already started or were about to start programs of study in their countries of origin.

The Auditor Program for Refugees

The challenge:

Where possible, the Auditor Program for Refugees strives to enable participants to begin regular study at TUM or another institution of higher education.

Requirements for study programs at TUM:

School and university diplomas have to be there and have to be reviewed by an agency. For most programs certificates of a high level of German language skill are needed.
